

With COVID-19 continuing to impact people and countries around the world, at Energy Conference Network our top priority is the health, safety and well-being of employees, event attendees and partners.

The business events industry is uniquely positioned to react to COVID-19 and aid in the global economic recovery. Business events must play a role in contributing to the solution - not the spread - of this outbreak.

At Energy Conference Network, our events focus on providing executives with the edge they need to overcome the challenges of today's operating environment. We're here to help you solve industry problems and facilitate meetings with decision makers. This is especially true at this time given the recent headlines re oil prices. We remain committed to running our events responsibly and to the best of our (not inconsiderable) ability.

We want to thank all our customers and partners for their continued support, open discussions and encouragement. As everyone has been reminding us, great things happen when the industry comes together and connects, and Energy Conference Network will continue to offer a platform for continued collaboration.

However, as COVID-19 has become much more prominent in the United States and has begun to spread more rapidly through parts of Europe and Asia, it is incumbent upon all of us to remain aware and vigilant of this growing public health threat.

We urge you to take the following precautions:

- ✓ Always practice good hygiene: wash hands, cover coughs and sneezes, and avoid sharing food, cups or utensils.
- ✓ Wash your hands often with soap and water for at least 20 seconds. Use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer that contains at least 60% alcohol if soap and water are not available.
- ✓ Make sure to avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth with unwashed hands and avoid personal contact with sick people.
- ✓ Clean and disinfect frequently touched objects and surfaces. CDC cleaning recommendations can be found here.
- ✓ Get a flu shot.
- ✓ Recognize the symptoms of this illness which may include a high fever, cough, difficulty breathing, similar to what you may feel with the flu or a bad cold.
- ✓ Seek care and immediately notify your health care provider if you are experiencing these symptoms.
- ✓ Stay home when you are sick.

The Energy Conference Network team remains in regular contact with local, state and federal health officials for the latest information and will continue to provide updates to our attendees, partners and sponsors when warranted.

Thank you all once again for supporting us and our industry during these challenging times.